

converting tomorrow's opportunities into today's profits

- Do you get the financial information you need to run your business?
- If you were provided with good quality, regular and relevant information could you improve your decision making? Would it help you maintain and grow your business?
- If you could rely on the consistency and accuracy of the information, could you concentrate your efforts on what's important to you and your business?
- Have you the right resources to fulfil your future plans?

Large multi-national businesses are not the only ones asking these questions, but are usually the only ones who can afford to make the changes. Large companies and governments are regularly turning to their financial advisers not just to help control costs and manage risk, but for innovative ways to improve overall business performance. Research from "Accenture" now confirms the correlation between excellence in the finance function and the ability to become a high-performance business.

You are not alone! SME's are in the same position as the "BP's" and "O2's" of this world, and that's where NFBS can help. It's not as costly as you might think either – our No Frills Standard Service is typically 50% of your current cost. Don't rely on that from us, you can ask our clients.

NFBS is a consultancy that efficiently processes your financial information and through our local consultants, provides you up-to-date, regular management accounts and independent advice on the performance of your business. All this is included in our Standard Service.
